[Process Overview]

Belitsoft LLC. Development Center in Minsk, Belarus, uses the requirements of the Capability Maturity Model Integration (CMMI) at Maturity Level 2. CMMI is a new and more demanding model developed by the SEI (Software Engineering Institute, Carnegie Mellon University) for assessing a company's software engineering capability and the maturity of an organization's processes.

Belitsoft quality management system is verified with ISO 9001:2008 international certificate. Adopted in 1987 by the International Organization for Standardization in Geneva, Switzerland, the ISO quality system establishes an internationally recognized standard of quality. It examines product development lifecycle: design, development, and technical support. www.iso.org

Our main project development stages are:

[Confidentiality]

To protect customer's private information or intellectual property, we can sign a Non-Disclosure Agreement (NDA) before you deliver us any project-related information

[Analysis]

Analysis is the first step towards successful project implementation. Belitsoft experts prepare initial project development plan in quite short period of time. This is a free service and it takes us 2-4 days from the time we get your request.

[System Requirement Specification]

We clearly describe client's system business requirements so they are easy to study and evaluate. After business requirements have been clarified and agreed upon we prepare and offer the optimal technical solution with comprehensive suggestion regarding the project architecture, technologies analysis, total cost of ownership (TOC) estimation, etc.

[Elaboration]

Elaboration of development plan and offered specification along with graphic design of the system take place in this phase. Takes 20-30% of time.

[System construction]

The biggest part, where most of the coding, development, and testing are performed. Takes 50-70% of time.

[Transition]

Delivery of work results to the customer and the product installation. Takes about 10% of time. These stages are an integral part of any project. But then, depending on the complexity of a project, its budget and customer goals, a project may contain or not some parts, like user documentation preparation, extended technical documentation development, extra testing, etc.
